BACKGROUND

The real estate Industry being highly fragmented with regional dynamics and smaller players is marred with a low level of Investor trust. Although the emergence of large corporate houses into this sector is bringing some level of transparency, there are no set benchmarks to differentiate one from another.

Broad criteria used in the rating methodology

In order to evaluate the quality of a real estate developer from the view point of its quality of construction, conformance to committed specifications and adherence to time schedule, Infomerics Ratings has brought out this product for enabling the customers to take an informed decision while purchasing any property. This is a city-specific rating encompassing all types of real estate properties. Broad areas covered are:-

- Financial Resourcefulness of the Builder;
- Track record of the project sponsor;
- Quality of Management;
- Quality of Technical Personnel, including Architects and Engineers;
- Technology;
- Quality Control Mechanism;
- Procedures & Systems;
- Quality of Legal Documentation and Land Status;
- Risk Management System & Mitigation Process;
- Project Profile and Financial Flexibility/Viability of the Project;
- Marketing & Pricing Procedures.

Rating Scale

The Star Ratings are assigned on a city-specific, seven-point scale; for example, 'Mumbai One Star' to 'Mumbai Seven Star' being the highest. The lowest rating will be 'non-deliverable' project. The assigned rating will thus be a benchmark against other rated projects.

The ratings are available for the proposed, ongoing and recently completed commercial and residential projects. Once the rating is assigned, the project will be monitored/reviewed constantly, providing timely updates on project progress. The rating will be valid until the project is completed.
